Parents Play Valuable Role

Since students can log into Lexia Reading Core5® anywhere that there is an internet connection, there are many ways parents can extend their children's learning outside the classroom.

This flexibility has enabled my students to use the program at home, in libraries or at community centers. In addition, Core5 is accessible on the iPad® giving students mobile access, and making it possible for some of them to use the program while accompanying their parents on the go.

With all of these avenues to connect to Core5, parents can play a valuable role in helping their children get their recommended minutes in the program and reach their end-of-year benchmarks in Core5.
