

Snapshots to SUCCESS

Comfortable and Confident

I have a student that has social, emotional and attention struggles. Therefore, it is a challenge to get him to work on an activity for more than a few minutes. He also lacks self-esteem and confidence in many school subjects, especially reading, so he does not put forth much effort.

I started working with him on his Lexia Skill Builders and now he asks for them each week. He gets excited to do them because they're at his level. He feels capable of doing them and feels really good when he is able to complete the activity.
