

Empowering Emergent Bilinguals To Thrive

ACADEMIC YEAR 2025–2026

The Research Speaks for Itself¹

Emergent Bilinguals who use Lexia® English Language Development™ outperform nonusers on assessments of language skills. Effect sizes on peer-reviewed studies for Lexia English ranged from 0.10 to 0.42.

118,200
STUDENTS

67,700
EDUCATORS

5,800
SCHOOLS

Student-Driven Learning²

Students who used as recommended:

Built speaking, listening, and grammar skills by completing an average of 183 units

Demonstrated what they learned across an average of 28 Presentations of Knowledge

Made progress such that 2 in 5 students moved up a proficiency band in their respective language standard in the program

Academic Conversations

340.4K total hours of conversation

4.2M total number of conversations

59% of time using Lexia English was spent in conversations

Aligns to Multiple English Language Proficiency Standards

WIDA • AZ ELPS • CA ELD • TX ELPS • NY ELD • ELPA21

Voices of Educators

“Lexia English is helpful because it provides structured, interactive practice in speaking, listening, vocabulary, and grammar. The program gives immediate feedback, especially on oral language, which is something that can be hard to monitor individually in a full classroom. The levels adjust automatically based on student needs, and the visuals and repetition support both newcomers and developing English learners.”

“I like how well the program scaffolds language acquisition. Students can work independently at their own pace, providing just-right support in phonology, vocabulary, and grammar without requiring constant direct supervision.”

1. For more information, visit lexialearning.com/research.

2. Results for 29,722 K–6 U.S. students who used Lexia English between 7/28/2025 and 5/31/2026. Students were considered to have used the online portion of Lexia English as recommended if they used the program for at least 10 weeks and had an average of 30+ minutes/week of usage for grades K–2 students and 45+ minutes/week of usage for grades 3–6 students. Data compiled and analyzed by the Lexia® Research Team.

Note: Includes usage data of sites available for reporting